Lecture Workshop on "Diversity, Conservation and Sustainable use of Pollinators"

8th August 2019

Organized by

Indian Science Congress Association,
(Bangalore Chapter)

In association with

Natural Science Association,
Department of Zoology
St. Joseph's College (Autonomous),
Bengaluru-560 027

Pollination is a keystone process in both human managed and natural terrestrial ecosystems provided by pollinators (birds, bats, bees, butterflies, beetles, and mammals). Without this ecosystem service, many interconnected species and processes functioning within an ecosystem would collapse. Recent reports suggest, pollinators are under threat due to habitat loss, degradation, and fragmentation; non-native species and diseases; pollution, including pesticides and climate change. Considering this and the ISCA theme for 2019- Science & Technology: Rural Development, this lecture workshop is conducted to raise awareness about pollination by providing technical information on the role of pollinators for crop production and to promote the conservation and sustainable use of pollinators.

The Indian Science Congress Association (ISCA) is a professional body under DST, GOI. Established in 1914, ISCA has been promoting science and inculcating the spirit of science through its multifarious activities..

St. Joseph's College (Autonomous) has a history of more than 130 years. In 2004, the college was declared as a college of potential excellence by the UGC. Re-accredited by NAAC with A++ with a CGPA of 3.79/4.00
